The Thistles protested the goal made by the Woman's Mugazine team, and from a spectator's point of view their protest was well taken. TWO BIG LOCAL TEAMS PLAYED WELL

St. Louis and Washington Universities Put Up Strong Game Against Opponents.

COLLEGE ELEVEN OUTCLASSED

Christian Brothers' College Could Do Nothing Against Rolla-Myrtle and Maroon Defense Strong.

Washington University put up a good game against the Kansas team at the Stadium Saturday in spite of the fact that they were defeated. The strong defense made by the local eleven against the more weighty opponents from the West was one of the foremost features of the contest. Both of the Jayhawkers' touchdowns myrtle and maroon team held them for a nothing-nothing score in the second half. It is very probable that had the Wash-ington team kicked more in the first half they would have prevented the Kansas players from scoring at all. Much booting was resorted to in the second half, and this kept the Westerners from scoring.

Smith and Baker switched their positions at half back and end in the game, Seth playing in the line on the defensive and went to the back field place while his team had the ball. His gains, together with those of Krause and Crisp in the back field positions, were features.

When it is taken into consideration the fact that Kansas outweighed the local eleven about ten pounds to the men, and the fact that they had more experience in playing against stronger and better teams than has been the case with Washington, it makes the contest a better one from the local side.

on several occasions he was compelled to retire in favor of Logan.

This player ran the team well, and his tackling was good. This player is young and rather light, but his tackling in the games that he has played has been as good as the more experienced players on the team. In the game with Texas Logan was sent in to succeed Stuttle, and or more than one occasion a Texan passed the line with the ball and with Logan the only with the ball and with Logan the only man between the runver and the goal line. Logan tacked low and spoiled what looked to be chances of scoring on long runs.

CLAIM OF CHAMPIONSHIP. St. Louis's defeat of Missouri University sets them in a position for the claim of the championship. Whether Coach Delarney of the blue-and-white team will take this stand is not known, although he has good grounds to demand a game with Washington.

Missourf's playing with the local university at Columbia Saturday was good, but the playing of St. Louis was better, and the better team won.

Coach McLean stated after the game that he had no complaint to make; that St. Louis outplayed, outclanded and outgeneraled his team at all stages. Delarney on the way home from Columbia said that he was certain that his team could have run up a higher score had they been so instructed, but he had cautioned them about allowing the Tigers to pass the line for a score. The coach's statement is borne out from the fact that the players were too anxious to keep the Tigers from getting past them, and were penalized every few minutes of the first half for cffside playing.

The St. Louis players were compelled to go over ninety-five yards of penalized to constructed in the his cannot be constructed by the first half for cffside playing.

The St. Louis players were compelled to go over ninety-five yards of penalized ground before scoring their touchdowns. Had this not been the case and had they kept on side, they would have undoubtedly run up a larger figure on their side of the score sheet, but with a possibility of the Tigers having other than a zero on theirs.

the Tigers having other than a zero on theirs.

"Silk" Campbell, the blond guard, was one of the individual stars of the game. Campbell, at the snap of the ball, had his opponent on the ground, and in many cuses was behind the line blocking the back, carrying the ball.

"Silk" is spoken of very highly by the coach and other disinterested parties. He weighs close to the hundred mark, stripped, and his weight, together with the distinction of being the fastest man on the team, makes him an important factor in all the university games.

"Silk, if he was willing, could be developed into one of the finest full backs in the country," said Delaney, in speaking of his guard.

The change in the back field line-up caused by Pechmann's absence had little to do with the result of the game. Irwin, who took Peck's place at the half back, was a consistent ground-gainer and seldom made his distance when given the ball.

The Miners greatly outweighed the local team and were fast together with the beef. It has been the custom of the Cote Brilliante team to win from heavy teams, but the Rolla boys had speed with their weight, and the C. B. C. had no chance.

WHITES TO COMPETE

Day Seems Over.

While the pugilistic prospect for the next two weeks includes only a bout between John Wille and Jack O'Brien, if the West End Club can arrange such a match, and also a battle between Abe Attell and Kid Goodman, there is a prospect for some fights between the leading light heavy weights and weiter weights of the country in the following fortnight.

Barney Furey and Honey Mellody are practically matched for a go Thanksgiving evening. Mellody was matched to fight Furey last week, but balked on the propo-sition at the last moment. He claimed that he had not received sufficient notice to train properly and evidently dreaded meeting the Circinnati man when out of form.

This fight should be a good card, inas much as Mellody is admittedly one of the toughest men in his division. With the defeats administered to Joe Gans by Langford and Blackburn, and with the instances in which Joe Walcott has gone down to the same fate before a couple of Mellody had the prior claim on honors in the welter-weight class.

When this matter is urged, however, the question may be asked as to just who is the leading fighter in the light weight and welter weight divisions.

Mellody had the prior claim on honors in man's Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 2 to 1.

At the same park the Rawlings and Sportsman eleven played a tie game, each welter weight divisions.

So long as Walcott was in his best trin there was little question as to who was supreme in the realm of 142 and 144 poundsupreme in the realm of 142 and 144 pounderst. The Barbadoes black was always ready to settle that question for anyone of an inquiring turn of mind. He was willing to make matches and to prove conclusively, in his own particular way, that he was the welter-weight champion. Then Joe Gans loomed up on the scene. Joe is nominally a light weight. In his last few battles, however, he has been stretching this limit just as incumbents of championship honors in the feather-weight class have done. It would require a spyglass to find the limit of the feather-weight division to-day. With Abe Attell, who often fought at the West End Club, claiming this title, and with Young Corbett and Britt each loud in his claims that their 129 pounds—or more—of bone and sinew were entitled to the honor, it is hard to discover just who is right and who is wrong.

So far as the weiter-weight division is concerned, it seems as if Mellody had a first-class claim to be ranked as one of the leading contenders. He has not gone down to defeat as has Walcott, nor has he ever figured in bouts of a questionable nature. It seems as if he must be regarded as a man to be beaten before his conqueror could claim honors in his own class.

If Furey and Mellody should put up a class.

If Furey and Mellody should put up a high-class fight, a return match would he arranged between the victor and the leading man in the same division. This should settle honors decisively. Walcott may be regarded as bractically out of the running at present, inasmuch as he has been more engaged with Judges and Juries over a small police shooting scrape in which he figured than with referees and club managers of late.

Furey has made a good impression here, although he has not yet been seen in the ring. It is impossible to speak of a man's ability until he is actually followed in active battling. It would look, however, as though he could be ranked as a leading candidate on the strength of work he has already to his credit.

Furey and Mellody seem capable of putting the welter-weight end of the game
